For all genetic analyses, the German Gene Diagnostics Law (GenDG) stipulates a detailed explanation along with a written patient consent and, prior to predictive analyses, additional genetic counselling.

Please read this consent carefully and tick YES or NO.

I, the undersigned, have been given a general explanation in writing (and, if applicable, special written explanations) regarding genetic analyses in accordance with GenDG and I have read and understood the explanation(s). I hereby give my permission for genetic analyses that may be required for clarification of the disease/health disorder/diagnosis:

and I consent to give necessary blood/tissue samples.

I² agree to the results of the analysis/es being passed on to further doctors / persons¹:

☐ yes
☐ no

I² wish to be informed about the results of the genetic analysis only insofar as these practically are relevant for myself and my family in respect of the above medical problems.
I waive notification of incidental findings.

☐ yes
☐ no

I² wish to be informed about any incidental findings from which practical consequences may be derived.

☐ yes
☐ no

Legislation states that your personalized data and medical results/evidence have to be destroyed completely after a period of 10 years. However, the information obtained may be of continued importance for you or your family (e.g. your children) after expiry of that period.

If you agree, we will be allowed to keep your data beyond the legally prescribed 10-year period³.

☐ yes
☐ no

- Do you consent to data/documentation relevant to you or your family being kept for a maximum of 30 years before it is destroyed?

Consent Form¹ for the Performance of Genetic Analyses Pursuant to the German Gene Diagnostics Law (GenDG) incl. Withdrawal of Consent Form
FB-PÄ 25

² If this consent form is used by commissioned persons/institutions, the requirement of communication and provision of findings does not apply, since any reports may ONLY be sent by the responsible doctor and findings may only be communicated by a responsible doctor or a genetics counselor. Commissioned institutions and persons are obliged to provide their results/findings ONLY to the responsible doctor.

³ If the patient's consent has been obtained for a specific storage period (e.g. for 30 years), the relevant documentation must be kept for that same period. It is recommended therefore obtaining this consent for RELEVANT medical documentation only. A declaration of assignment does not provide for discretionary power since neither documentation nor findings constitute any property rights as defined in Section 950 BGB (German Civil Code).

⁴ Although assignment of residual sample material as per Section 950 BGB grants the laboratory a free and uncomplicated right of disposition for such sample material in terms of discarding or up to free research, this is contradictory to the purpose of the law (Section 1).

⁵ Unless otherwise agreed in writing with the patient/s with regard to storage / use of residual sample material, the latter shall be destroyed immediately as and when it is no longer required for the intended purpose/s. Since the law does not say anything about a point in time, the investigator will be more or less free to fix a date.
